

SEVERAL ADDITIONS MADE TO FREE LIST

CONFEREES AGREE TO COMPROMISE IN DISCUSSION OF TARIFF MEASURE.

LENGTHY CONFERENCE

Will Be Necessary to Dispose of More Important Differences Between Senate and House.

Washington, Sept. 17.—A compromise between senate and house whereby cotton grain bags used in the west and "press clothes" of camels hair used in the cotton seed oil mills of the South will both go to the tariff free list is expected late today. The conferees today agreed to the senate free listing of photographic films and giving the secretary of the treasury power to censor all imported photographic plays or pictures. The senate rates on photographic apparatus were slightly reduced.

Many Differences. The more important differences between the two houses on all features of the tariff bill are still to be considered and it is believed the conferees will not end before the early part of next week.

With the consideration of the administration currency bill more than half finished the house today resumed reading the measure for amendment. The senate leaders believed it would go to the senate before Saturday. Some republicans and progressives are expected to vote for the bill.

Wants Duty on Flour. Speaker Champ Clark introduced to President Wilson today his constituent William Pollock of Mexico, Mo., said to be the oldest miller in the United States. Mr. Pollock, who is eighty-three years of age, has been in the milling business sixty-nine years and talked to the president in favor of a duty on wheat flour. Mr. Wilson listened attentively to the argument of his venerable caller but said the conferees on the tariff bill now had the subject before them and he could not take part unless information was sought from him.

Plan Navy Schools. Secretary Daniels will extend to every ship in the navy the system of instruction for apprentice seamen in common school studies and advanced classes in certain technical branches which he recently established at naval training schools. Secretary Daniels said today his object in establishing floating schools was to encourage every enlisted man to choose some branch or trade to follow in the service which would fit him for civil life in case he did not re-enlist.

The law provides that the law provides that inspectors failing to return them will receive no pay for their services. ENGLAND IN DREAD MOST GRAVE STRIKE UNION LABORERS Trouble Began With Walkout in Dublin—Sympathetic Strikes of Liverpool Dock Hands.

London, Sept. 17.—England is threatened with the most serious strike of union labor in its history according to union leaders here today. The trouble began with a walkout of a number of union workmen last week in Dublin in consequence of the strike of transport workers because of the employment of non-union laborers. Rumors of discontent have since been heard throughout the entire labor community of the British Isles, but thus far there has been no effect except in the larger cities.

The sympathetic strike of Liverpool dockers and of the railroad workers here and at Birmingham has already stopped the three great trunk railways serving the midland counties of England and Manchester canal country. It is also threatened with a strike of dock laborers for better wages.

At Liverpool seven of the great depots were idle this morning and others are likely to be soon closed for want of traffic. In Ireland all attempts have failed to settle the Dublin trouble, the direct cause of the strike of Liverpool and Birmingham, the difficulty to get provisions into the Irish capital has become so great that it is believed the markets will have to close their doors.

London has been indirectly affected by the strike on the railroads in the midland area. In Ireland all attempts have failed to settle the Dublin trouble, the direct cause of the strike of Liverpool and Birmingham, the difficulty to get provisions into the Irish capital has become so great that it is believed the markets will have to close their doors.

Madison, Sept. 17.—Mayor Grube of Watertown, Superintendent Vilas of the Northwestern road, expressed contrary views before the railroad commission today in explaining the cause of the poor earnings of the passenger train operating in the evening and early morning between Janesville and Fond du Lac.

The mayor said the low earnings probably arose from poor service, delaying the train, which was generally an hour late and that at some stations between Watertown and Fond du Lac no agents were on hand to sell tickets and that the train was not open.

PREPARE TO ENFORCE NEW "BLUE SKY" LAW

Railroad Commission Will Send Out Blanks to Dealers in Securities Who Must Secure License.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 17.—Blanks for reports under the "Blue sky law," which becomes effective on Oct. 1, are now being prepared by the railroad commission and will be mailed out within a few days. The law is in two distinct parts, one affecting dealers in securities and the other affecting the securities themselves. In the case of the securities, the railroad commission is required, while in the case of companies the requirement is that certain information regarding the affairs of the company be submitted to the commission. Any company that cannot satisfy the commission that it is safe and sound and that its business is lawful is to be excluded from doing business in the state.

Members of the railroad commission have begun a study of the details of the law so that it may be enforced with the least delay. Application for dealers' licenses will be required to show what securities they propose to deal in and to file lists of the agents who are to represent them in Wisconsin. These lists of securities and agents are to be kept up to date, and in addition periodic reports will be required of dealers showing what securities they have sold in Wisconsin. It will not be necessary for agents to appear in person, but licensed dealers to obtain licenses themselves. It is not the intent of the law that the private affairs of the dealer should be inquired into, except as such inquiry may be necessary to determine the integrity of the dealer.

Searching Investigation. According to members of the commission companies selling their own securities must submit to a searching investigation. It may be necessary to obtain from such companies statements of their assets and liabilities with sufficient description so that fictitious values can be detected. In certain cases it may be necessary to find out the financial results of their operations in the past. The plan of selling securities together with commissions and agents and prices to be obtained from them, will be the subject of inquiry. This portion of the law applies to matters of promotion. The law does not cover securities of the kind of corporations. The securities of all Wisconsin corporations in whose authorized capital together with other liabilities does not exceed $25,000 are not subject to the act.

TO PROBE ATTEMPT TO KILL GEN. OTIS

Postoffice Inspectors Seek Person Who Sent Dynamite Bomb Through Mails.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 17.—To that area of the city which comprises the business section and a portion of the cheap hotel district, the federal city and county authorities confined their energies today in the search for the sender of the dynamite bomb which was received through the mails yesterday by General Harrison Gray Otis, proprietor of the Los Angeles Times. All agreed that the maker of the bomb lived in this district because the package, containing the dynamite, was placed in a parcels post box in the downtown section and carried to the postoffice station which handles mail for the greater portion of the business district and a large portion of the east side. The dynamite was placed in the parcel machine was that extremely high powered explosive known as "85%," the same as was used by James H. McManara in blowing up the Times building October 1, 1910.

Expect a Report. Washington, Sept. 17.—A rigid investigation of the latest attempt on the life of General Harrison Gray Otis of Los Angeles, Cal., is being made by postoffice inspectors. An official report had yet been received today at the postoffice department, but one is expected from the Los Angeles office. Chief Inspector Johnson is giving the case his personal attention.

SULZER CASE CAUSE OF TAMMANY LOSSES

Effect is Shown in Primaries Held Throughout New York State Yesterday Say Politicians.

New York, Sept. 17.—The impeachment of Sulzer and his fight for direct primary reform played an important part in yesterday's democratic primaries in New York state. The governor's friends maintain that these issues were responsible for defeat of the regular democratic organizations suffered in several localities.

In Buffalo and Rochester the largest of these outside of New York the regular democratic organization which lined with Tammany Hall in the Sulzer impeachment fight were badly beaten. In Albany county former state committee man McCabe, clerk of the senate, affirmed Tammany adherents came so near defeat that the party leadership may remain in doubt until the official count. In New York city the Sulzer issue was not apparent. Only one of the democratic district leaders was unhorsed and this contest was surely local.

Sulzer's threats to make the assemblymen smart for defeating his direct primary measure was recalled today when primary returns showed that four of the assemblymen who voted against this measure and for his impeachment were defeated for re-nomination. In five democratic nominees for assemblymen in Monroe county, which includes Rochester, were designated by the opponents of Tammany Hall. Only one of Monroe's five representatives in the assembly at present is a democrat. The primaries held by other parties had no state wide feature to distinguish them.

WILL TRY TO FREE MRS. KATE EDWARDS

Pennsylvania State Board of Pardons Takes Up Consideration of Pardon Petition.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 17.—The State board of pardons today took up for consideration a petition asking a pardon for Mrs. Kate Edwards, who has been in jail in Reading for twelve years under sentence of death for the murder of her husband, John Edwards. Because of the public sentiment which opposes inflicting the extreme penalty on a woman, four governors of Pennsylvania have declined to set a day for her execution. The petition for pardon sets forth that it is contrary to the spirit of the law as to public sentiment for a prisoner to be kept so long under death sentence and declares that it is the belief of the petitioners that the woman already has been sufficiently punished for her crime.

GET LARGE REVENUE FROM STOCK ISSUES

Fees for Authorization of Bonds and Stocks Brings in $2,911,640.—To School Fund.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 17.—Authorization of stocks and bonds during the past year brought in a total revenue of $2,911,640, according to the report announced by the railroad commission today. Under the law this money is turned into the common school fund. Of the total about $14,700 was paid by the street railways, about $5,500 by the street railways and the remainder by gas, electric, water and telephone companies.

The largest single fee was contributed by the Northern Pacific railway company when it issued $4,000,000 of bonds, and at the rate of $1 per thousand paid a fee of $4,000. The Soo, however, paid the largest fee in the aggregate as those of the Chicago and North Western paid $6,704.40. Another large fee was paid by the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road, amounting to $2,500. The smallest fee of the year was collected from the Red Granite Telephone company, the sum being $135.

The fees collected during the past year were only about one-half as large in the aggregate as those of the year before. The main reason for this difference was that during the preceding year the Northwestern line constructed its extension from Milwaukee to Sparta, against which the fee which was issued. The fee for this issue was $15,000. The "Soo" line also paid several large fees during the year, the total for that line being about $10,000.

The past legislative made a reduction in the fee which was probably limit the revenues for the coming year still more. Instead of a flat fee of $1 per thousand dollars of bonds issued, the new change is $1 per thousand for the first $100,000 and then 50 cents per thousand up to $500,000. Beyond that figure the rate is ten cents per thousand. Since the principal revenue from the fees has been due to issues running up into the millions, the reduction will be the source of considerable falling off in revenues.

Wisconsin's stock and bond law has already been adopted by eleven states and the same general method of disposing of the funds has been followed by all. So far the largest revenues have been raised under the Wisconsin law of any of the states which have adopted the plan of authorization.

BLOW AND ROB SAFE AFTER KILLING MAN

Four Masked Robbers, Get Away With $2,000 From Delivery Station of Mandel Brothers.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Four masked robbers forced an entrance into the delivery station of Mandel Bros. at 2653 W. Van Ness street today, and shot and killed Michael Waschul, stable man, gagged and bound three others to wagons and then blew open the safe in the office and escaped with $2,000.

Police Captain Joseph Ryan on investigating the robbery discovered tracks in the alley in the rear of the building believed to have been made by an automobile. This lead the police to think that the robbery might have been committed by the same auto bandits who held up Warrington McEvoy, messenger from the Garfield Park State Bank last Thursday and obtained $15,000 in currency and checks.

CLOSE COAL MINES IN MICHIGAN FIELD

MAY FAIL TO PASS FINANCIAL PROGRAM IN NEW YORK STATE

Sufficient Numbers of Members of Assembly May Not Appear.—State Faces Financial Embarrassment.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Aiding Governor Glynn and legislative leaders were none too hopeful today that sufficient members of the assembly would appear tonight in the state legislature when it convenes to put through the financial program. The state faces a very serious financial embarrassment if the revenue bill and appropriations for bond interests are not passed. Many of the present assemblymen were unsuccessful in obtaining nominations as candidates for re-election and the unusual drain on their private resources owing to repeated recalls to Albany since the extra session convened has put them into no amiable frame of mind for additional expense as their salary ceased with the adjournment of the regular session and under the law they are allowed mileage for only one trip to Albany to attend extraordinary sessions. Their other journeys were made at their own expense and were entirely at their own expense and also their maintenance in Albany.

In the upper house of the legislature where the Sulzer impeachment bill will be staged the leaders expect to have practically a full attendance of senators. Each senator will be called upon tomorrow to qualify as a member of the impeachment court and for this service he will draw a stipend variously estimated at from ten dollars to forty dollars a day. This compensation matter is one of the kinks that the judge of appeals who also will form a part of the impeachment court are expected to try out before the impeachment proceedings begin.

NO DEFINITE PLANS SAYS MERLIN HULL

Speaker of Assembly Mentioned as Gubernatorial Candidate Says It's Too Early for Politics.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 17.—Saying it is much too early for political campaigns, Speaker Merlin Hull sidetracked requests for a statement on his plans last night. The speaker came from Black River Falls to attend the meeting of the state board of public affairs. He is a possible gubernatorial candidate.

"I will say this much," he said, "I have received many letters and words of encouragement. I have made no plan whatever and do not feel that the people of Wisconsin want to be led on politics a year from the primary. What we all need now is a rest from political excitement."

Senator George H. Scott said he never hears of politics unless it emerges beyond the borders of Barron county.

SUFFRAGETTE ARSON SQUAD ATTEMPTS TO BURN DOWN MANSION

Household Employees at Penshurst Place Succeeded in Arresting Flames—See Women Fleeing.

London, Eng., Sept. 17.—A suffragette arson squad today tried to burn down Penshurst Place, the historic fourteenth century country seat of Lord De Lisle and Dudley at Tunbridge Kent. The inmates of the great mansion awakened by the crackling of wood and of clouds of smoke found the frame work of a workman's windows ablaze. A workman and party of household employees succeeded in extinguishing the flames with the efficient apparatus on the premises.

Two women were seen fleeing across the lawn in front of the building and suffrage literature was scattered about the grounds. Great indignation prevails among the neighboring residents as it now is certain that the mansion hitherto open to visitors will be closed.

It contains valuable portraits of the holder of the title whose family name is Sidney. Among them are paintings of Sir Philip Sidney, the sixteenth century poet soldier and Algerine Sidney who was beheaded in the 17th century.

THAW JUBILANT OVER HIS COURT VICTORY

Moves to Concord to Await Extradition Hearing Before Court—Plays Piano for an Hour.

Littleton, N. H., Sept. 17.—Harry Kendall Thaw moved on to Concord the capitol today to await the hearing before Governor Peck on Tuesday of his extradition. Safe in the knowledge that the United States district court will review his case on a writ of habeas corpus if he loses, the Mattheawan fugitive was greeted by the crowd which gathered him on the way to the railway station. His return was due to leave at 9:30 and to reach Concord at 2:10. Thaw celebrated his court victory yesterday over William Traverses Justice by playing the piano in the parlor of the hotel where he had been quarantined here. Around him sat an admiring throng of hotel patrons. He played classical music mostly, and avoided the modern rag time. For over an hour he was at the piano and he would have played longer had not his custodians United States Marshal Niles and Sheriff Drew told him it was bed time. Ex-governor Stone of Pennsylvania was the only lawyer with Thaw today. The others satisfied with their work in having the federal habeas corpus hearing indefinitely suspended left town last night to rest before the extradition hearing. Mr. Jerome also left. He will go to Concord probably on Monday of next week to prepare for the hearing.

NEW SIGNAL LIGHTS GIVEN FIRST TEST

Lamp Installed at Corner of Milwaukee and River Streets for Police Call System.

The attention of not a few persons was attracted last night and today by a red-shaded electric light, located on a pole in front of the Janesville Electric company's office at the corner of Milwaukee and River streets. They took the trouble to inquire what it signified they learned that it was a test lamp installed for the purpose of trying out the new signal system for calling the local patrolmen on their beats, which was recently ordered by the city council.

Chief of the Fire Department Henry Klein, has had several men busy for a week or so past stringing the aerial wires for the call system and the wires are now ready for connections with lamps at Main and Milwaukee streets, Academy and Milwaukee, and at Jackson and Milwaukee. The lamp at Academy and Milwaukee was connected up and turned on last night for the purpose of a trial test, the ease with which the light can be seen and the size of the circle of power being especially observed.

Chief Klein has the wires led to the central station at the city hall and will make the connections there as soon as possible. When the central switch board is installed it will make it possible for the officer at the station to signal to any patrolman by turning on the light on his beat. Each officer will receive instructions to telephone to the police station as soon as the light is turned on and will then be informed what is wanted. Each or all of the lights may be turned on at the same time.

Chief of Police Ransom anticipates that this will be an important improvement in the police service of the city and will make possible prompt attention of a police officer to any disturbance by bringing him in close communication with the central station. The entire system will be installed at a cost of $75 or less.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Theodore F. Holstein, Avalon, Sept. 17.—Williamina Teoloh was born near Strasburg, province of Paderborn, Germany, August 22, 1836. She was married to Theodore Frederick Holstein on June 2nd and with him emigrated to America in the autumn of 1853. They came directly to Sharon, Wis., having resided in Walworth and Rock counties continuously since January 1870. To them were born eight children: Ezra, Rufus, Gertrude and Mary the latter preceding her father in death who passed away three years ago the present month.

Four children remain to sorrow for the mother, Charles, who at present is enroute overland from Kansas back to Wisconsin and knows nothing of the departure of his beloved mother; Fred of Fort Atkinson, William of Madison and Mable of Avalon.

There are also eight grandchildren and one great grandchild surviving. Brief services were held on Monday, September 16th from the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Rokenbrodt, with whom she lived, after which the body was taken to her home church at Allen Grove where funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. C. Klinge of Brandon, Wis., and the remains were tenderly laid in their last resting place in Mt. Philip cemetery.

E. P. Green. Word was received here this morning of the death of Mr. E. P. Green, a prominent hotel man of Janesville, New York. Death came last night and was due to paralysis of the heart. Fred E. DIFFER BUT LITTLE FROM FORMER YEARS

Gate Receipts at 1913 State Fair in Milwaukee Were $73,099 According to State Treasurer.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 16.—Gate receipts at the Wisconsin state fair of 1913 do not vary materially from those of recent years. State Treasurer Henry Johnson has finished checking up the receipts and gives out the following statement:

Receipts for 1913	$73,099.65
Receipts for 1912	$71,046.89
Receipts for 1911	$71,776.04

To this year's receipts will be added about $7,000 received by the merchants and manufacturers' association for the sale of tickets. Similar remittances were made after the fair closed last year, so that the final figures will not exceed those of other years in any great degree.

The gate receipts last week were as follows: Monday, $7,929.50; Tuesday, $6,255.12; Wednesday, $14,797.55; Thursday, $19,200.14; Friday, $12,979.52; Saturday, $15,137.52.

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS ALBERT PATSON TERHUNE PUSHMATAHA.

A Choctaw war party sprang around their campfire after the battle. That day they had fought the Osage tribe from west of the Mississippi. Each brave was telling of his own deeds of heroism. Suddenly someone asked what had become of Pushmataha, a lad of twenty, who had marched with them. None had seen him all day. He had vanished just before the conflict began.

Pushmataha was the laughing stock of his tribe. He was forever talking, and this jarred upon the silent natives. He was forever boasting, and he had done nothing thus far to warrant his boasts. Now, while his name was still bandied about the campfire, with sneers at his cowardice in shirking the fight, the youth suddenly appeared. A howl of laughter and derision greeted him.

"Let him laugh who has slain more foes this day than I," retorted Pushmataha, tossing five scalp upon the ground.

A Deadly Enemy. He had crept up on the Osages from the rear and, single-handed, had killed as many as had the boldest warrior. For thus making good his boast he received the rank of sub-chief and the title of "Eagle." This was in 1785. Not very long afterward Pushmataha went alone by night to a hostile Indian village in the Tonaqua district, slew seven men and burned part of the village to the ground. Three other invasions of the enemy's country brought him eight more scalps and new fame as a warrior.

But his reputation was destined to spread throughout the country; not merely as a killer of hostile Indians, but as the loyal friend of the United States. In the war of 1812 many of the Indian tribes joined the British and inflicted terrible damage on western pioneers and soldiers. Tecumseh had already tried to enlist the Choctaws in a league against the settlers, but had been balked by Pushmataha. The Choctaw "nation" met in a ten-day debate to determine what side to take in the war with England. They had just decided to remain neutral, helping neither country, when, at the close of the tenth day, Pushmataha rose and thus addressed the council:

"Our fathers grasped the hand of Washington. They vowed to be his people's friends. I cannot be false to their pledge. If our allies, the Creek nation, have sided with the British, we and they must henceforth follow different trails. I am prepared to fight both British and Creeks. I and my own warriors go now to Tuscaloosa. When you next hear from us the Creek fort there will be in smoldering ruins."

Again did Pushmataha make good his boast. For he not only captured and burned the Creek fort at Tuscaloosa, but attacked the Seminole and Creek allies of the British with such fury as to win battle after battle from them. From the government troops he learned the science of military discipline. He applied this learning to his own lawless followers with so firm a hand that he soon had welded them into a splendid body of soldiers. He incidentally won from frontier officers the nickname of "The Indian General."

He led 500 Indians and was in active service throughout the whole war. Most of the time he was under Gen. Andrew Jackson's orders, and he took part in no less than twenty-four fights.

When it came to signing a notable treaty between his people and the government in 1820 he displayed a genius for statesmanship and a shrewd diplomatic wisdom that amazed the president's agents. Gen. Jackson, who himself was noted for sharp diplomacy, is said to have confessed then that in Pushmataha he had met his match at bargain-driving. He said later, "Pushmataha is the bravest, greatest Indian I have ever known."

Four years afterward another Choctaw treaty was negotiated. This time Pushmataha insisted on coming in person to Washington. He sent word to President Monroe:

"I desire to brighten the chains of peace between the Americans and the Choctaws."

A Visit of State. So to Washington he came. There he was received with high honors by president and cabinet. He visited Gen. Lafayette, saw the sights of civilization and met with an ovation that would have turned the brain of a lesser man. Through it all the stately old Indian preserved his lofty dignity of manner. He allowed none of the bewildering new experiences to amaze or disturb him. He was as one monarch visiting another.

But the visit killed him. He fell ill in Washington, and on Dec. 24, 1824, died there. He knew he was dying. His last request was that he be buried with the honors accorded to officers of high rank and that cannon be fired over his grave.

His wishes were carried out in every respect. He was laid to rest in the Congressional cemetery, and 2,000 persons (including the president and many members of congress) followed him to his grave. John Randolph of Roanoke, the famous Virginia orator, said of him in the course of a eulogy in the senate:

"Pushmataha was wise in counsel, eloquent in an extraordinary degree and under all circumstances the white man's friend."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN H. OWEN

Janesville Commandery Knights Templar Have Charge of Burial Rites for Milton Junction Man.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton Junction, Sept. 17.—J. H. Owen was born in New York in 1857 and died at his home here Sunday, Sept. 14, 1913. When but a boy he came to Wisconsin with his parents and for many years lived on a farm near Milton Junction, Wis. He came to Milton Junction about thirty years ago and for twenty years was a member of the wholesale firm of Chambers & Owen. A few months ago, owing to the poor health of Mr. Owen, a company was organized under the firm name, Chambers, Owen and company, and Mr. Owen retired from active business but still retained an interest in the company.

Although in poor health his condition was not considered serious and Saturday night when getting ready to take a short ride he had a shivering spell which even with the aid of his physicians he was unable to rally from. He passed away about twelve o'clock Sunday morning.

John H. Owen was a loving husband and father and a true friend to all. He was ever ready to help those who in any way asked a favor of him. For many years he was a member of the school board and was vice president of the Farmers' bank at the time of his death. He was a member of the M. E. church.

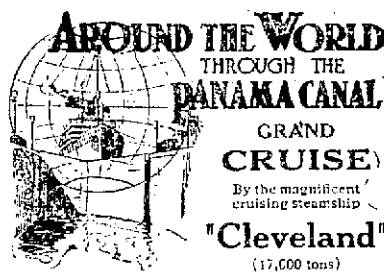

To mourn his loss he leaves a wife, one son, and two daughters, Jessie and Margaret, besides other relatives and friends. Funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock from the house and 2:30 from the M. E. church. The funeral was in charge of Rev. Perry of this city, assisted by Rev. Perry of this city, assisted by Rev. North of Edgerton. The burial was made in the village cemetery and was in charge of the Janesville Commandery, Knights Templar No. 2. It was the request of the family that the choir of which Mr. Owen had been a member for the past thirty years, should furnish the music. The choir was composed of C. H. Osborne, P. L. Burdick, Mrs. C. S. Button, and Mrs. J. A. Weaver, L. Burdick taking the place Mr. Owen had held for so long a time.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful, showing the love and respect all had for Mr. Owen. The family and other relatives have the sympathy of all as the entire community realize they have met with a great loss.

Soap from Banana Skins. Banana skins are utilized in soap-making on the west coast of Africa. The skins are rich in alkali, so they are burned to an ash, and this mixed with water and palm oil goes to make a cleanser which is in demand among the whites as well as the natives.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing. The best way to make boiled ham juicy and tender is to leave it in the water in which it is boiled until quite cold.

Never allow a cooking utensil to stand and dry before washing. Put cold water in it immediately.

When separating the yolks of eggs from the whites place the egg in hot water for a few seconds before breaking.

To clean carpets, take one gill of turpentine and one of ammonia, and shake well. Put in a tablespoonful to a quart of water and sponge the carpet.

Green peppers stuffed with any leftover meat and baked in the oven make a dainty dish, and is an excellent way to use up cold meat.

The Table. Deviled Meats—Cut some thin slices of cold meat—the remains of a kind will do—put them in a deep dish, and saturate with the following marinade: One wineglassful of claret, the strained juice of half a lemon, one tablespoonful of olive oil, one tablespoonful of vinegar, one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, a pinch of mustard, half a teaspoonful of white pepper, salt and red pepper to taste. Put a few small pieces of butter here and there, and place the dish in a hot oven for about half an hour, and serve hot.

Fig Filling for Cake—Stew one pound of dried or pressed figs until soft, blending down the liquor. Chop, and clean out the seeds and glands, and chop the fruit through the food chopper, then return to the liquor.

Thicken with two level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch wet with cold water. Add half a cupful of sugar or more.

Baked Spiced Ham—Boil the ham until tender, leave in liquor till cold. Take it out, wash the entire top, having the gashes about half an inch apart. Stick cloves in the gashes, sprinkle thickly with brown sugar and over all pour sherry wine generously. Put in the oven and bake till nicely browned all over.

Fruit Cake—Half a cupful of butter, half a cupful of sugar, three eggs, one heaping cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one cupful of cleaned currants, one cupful of seeded raisins, half a cupful of chopped citron peel, one level teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of nut cloves, quarter teaspoonful of mace, two tablespoonfuls of brandy, half a tablespoonful of grated lemon rind. Cream the butter and sugar then add eggs, well beaten, add remaining ingredients. Bake in an angel cake pan about two hours.

Cottage Pie—Some cold chopped cooked meat, pepper, paprika and salt to taste, two tablespoonfuls of butter, gravy, some cold potatoes. Rub the potatoes through a wire sieve with a wooden spoon. Grease a pudding dish, put alternate layers of potatoes and meat; add seasonings and gravy to each layer; continue this until the dish is full and leave a good layer of potatoes for the top. Mark the top with a fork and dot with the butter.

Sleep Disturbing Bladder Weakness Backache-Rheumatism, Quickly Vanish

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief From Few Doses of Croxone.

Croxone soon relieves such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; heals the inflamed membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, inactive kidneys so they can filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to end the worst backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed.

The Highest Ideals, Applied to Public Service

Back of every institution is an Ideal, a certain standard and conception.

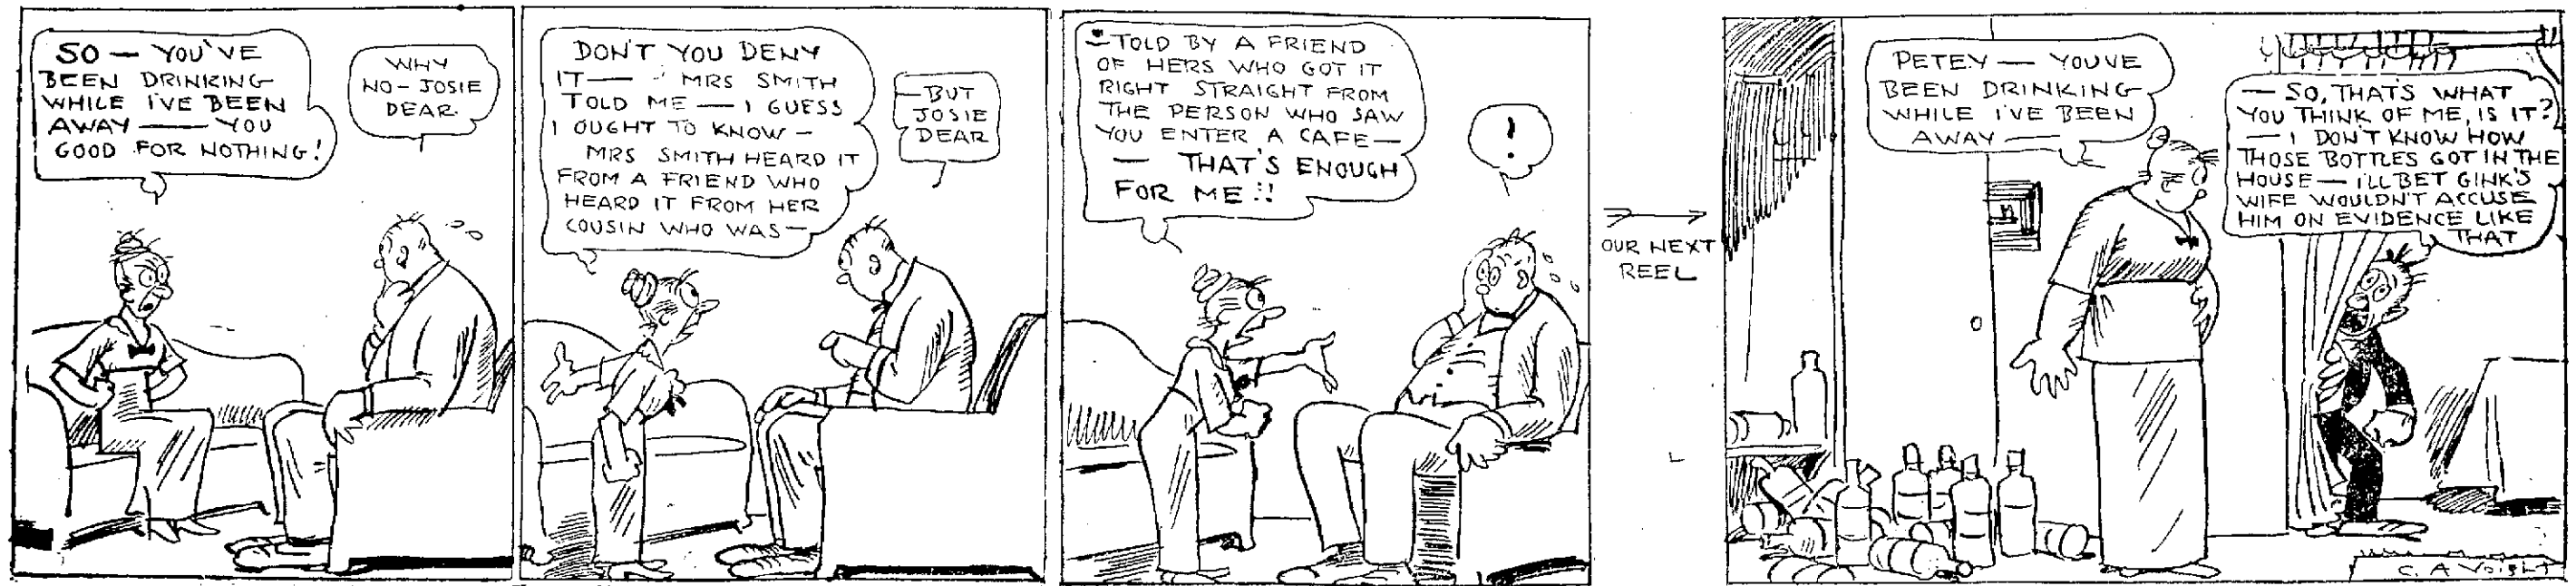

The single Ideal of the Bell Telephone organization is Service which shall be Good and Adequate in all its phases.

To attain this ideal, high scientific apparatus, together with efficiency methods in operating must be evolved, a harmonious, well-disciplined organization must be built up, commercial methods must be perfected, the financial conduct of the enormous business must be above criticism, and the problem must be solved of growth and development to meet an unparalleled public demand.

These ideals are being realized in Bell Universal Service.

SPORT Snap-Shots

Now that we're wearing bows in the back of our hats and Lannon cut coats—some of us—why not have a little mention of cricket on the sport page. It may interest many to know that the English cricket team playing a New York aggregation of cricketers, has simply been beating the life out of them. At the close of the first inning the other day the Britishers had scored 287 runs, or whatever they call 'em, against an even 100 by the New Yorkers. Quite a swat-fest. If all our home teams could score like that there would be less noise from the anvil chorus. The captain of the English team carried away the hitting honors and made Cobb and Jackson look like unpracticed amateurs by scoring 13 runs in one inning. Of course the game isn't over yet, as they only play when they're in the mood and are all out of tea. At the close of the game it will take an expert accountant to figure up the score.

Clark Griffith has uncovered and brought to light two child pitching wonders who, he thinks, will make worthy mates for Johnson, Doering and Groom. One is Doc Ayres from Richmond in the Virginia State league and the other is a twirler named Hedgepath from Petersburg. Ayres has quite a record. He fanned 324 batters in the Virginia State league season and is said to be the champion strike-out pitcher of all leagues, whether bush or major. Hedgepath has even as remarkable a record. For instance, he pitched three no-hit games this season and on one day pitched seventeen successive hitless innings. This occurred in a double-header against Richmond. The only hit of the day—the pitched both games—was in the first game. Hedgepath is a southpaw.

Old Joe Tinker is surely playing in hard luck this season. Not long since comment was made on the many misfortunes he has had with the tailend, or thereabouts. Reds, and misfortune seems to pursue him. When Joe had a run-in early in the season with Otto Knebe of the Phillies he was heartily applauded by the fans who were glad to see it happen. Knebe, it seems, had it coming to him. Now there has been a dispute and this time Tinker mixed it up before they were separated, and both of the angered disputants have been fined and it's unlikely that Joe will get the hand he did at the time of his previous battle. This time, it appears, there was less aggravation.

The football season at Cornell is beginning to get under way, and the arrival of Coach Sharpe and other leaders has started preparations in earnest. Cornell looks forward to a most agreeable season with the bliskin and it is being bruited about that they will cause consternation among the enemy. The selection of Munns as captain this season has met with favor on every side and he and Doc Sharpe and their assistants are very sanguine over the promising material that seems to be at hand. Every arriving train brings more husky freshmen eager to get out and pursue the elusive ball. Lots of strong material will be supplied by the freshman team of last year and unless there is a greater shower of probation notices than usual the star men of the old team of last fall will help mightily in building up this year's varsity. The freshman guys, Sheldon and McCutcheon, will no doubt figure in the selection of the varsity line-up, as they played fast games last fall. McCutcheon, in particular, showed lots of pep and he may solve the problem of the varsity's left wing. Cornell has an unusually hard schedule this fall. The big games will be Harvard, Pennsylvania and Michigan. The Michigan game will be played at Ithaca and the Thanksgiving day game will take place at Philadelphia with Pennsylvania.

HAS CHECK SIGNED BY BASEBALL IDOLS

Frank L. Smith Possesses Autographs of Sixteen Persons, Nearly All Famous in Game.

A check of unusual interest among the baseball fans is being exhibited by Frank L. Smith, as it is endorsed by sixteen persons, nearly all of whom are famous in the baseball world. The check is made payable to "Fielder" Jones by Edward Lyon in payment of a bet on the world series between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Americans and it appears that when the Old White Sox leader was in Milwaukee a year ago attending a conference of baseball managers, it was endorsed by the other men.

The first name on the back of the check is "Fielder" Jones, who at the present time is president of the Pacific coast league. Jones is better known to the baseball world as being the leader of the famous White Sox team, "the hitless wonders" of Chicago in 1906 when by his game fighting he led his team to a pennant winning victory over the American league and defeated the Chicago Cubs or the world's championship. For a few years he retired from baseball, being engaged in developing his interests in lumbering, but since then was elected to lead the Pacific coast league.

Joe Cantillon, manager of the Minneapolis American Association team, also indorsed the check and has been a big leaguer at one time. His team is now fighting for the championship and if he beats Milwaukee his team will have won the bunting for the four times victor. Cantillon was born in Janesville and spent his youth in learning to play the game in the sand lots of Bunker Hill.

Joe Ginty, manager of the Tomah club, also appears on the list and he at one time was the "iron man" of the New York Giants and was one of the greatest pitchers during his time. He was one of the first twirlers that started developing the drop curve and by strict study outclassed all other rivals with this ball.

High Duffy, manager of an Eastern coast league team, and a veteran leaguer, has his signature on the check and he is famed to the fans having managed the Chicago White Sox and Milwaukee Brewers and during his management of the White Sox purchased Lena Blackburn with a fancy price of eleven thousand dollars. When he failed to make good he was sent to the Milwaukee club and will be recalled this spring.

Ducky Holmes, manager of the Sioux City team in the Western league and Ted Sullivan are represented. Sullivan was manager of the St. Louis team back in the infant stage of baseball and is credited with the discovery of Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, a first baseman and developing him in the baseball world. Other names on the list are "Tip" O'Neil, J. Peck Sharp, and Monte Cross of the Cincinnati American league team, has his signature there and Tinker is probably the best known player among the present day fans, being one of the best short stops in the game today. He was a member of the record holding Cubs in their three time march for the National league pennant and world's championship once, under the leadership of Frank Chance.

The check is attracting considerable attention among the friends of Mr. Smith as it is seldom that the names of such a number of stars of the old baseball times is seen.

High School Eleven Busy With Signal—Will Elect Captain For Team in Near Future.

No games have been scheduled for the Janesville football eleven as yet and the contest with Stoughton has been postponed. Coach Guy Curtis is negotiating for games with the Jefferson, Edgerton, Whitewater and Beloit teams but as yet no answers have been received.

Football prospects are not advancing as fast as they should be as several of the experienced men are disqualified and around these men was planned to build the team. Signal practice is occupying the candidates' attention at the present time and it is expected that none of the positions will be settled before the week of the first contest. A captain will be elected within a short time.

Spanish coins have been counterfeited, perhaps more than the coins of any other country. Even at the present time Spain is redeeming counterfeit five peseta pieces. TRUTH IN ADVERTISING.

Under this caption The Milwaukee Journal discusses this interesting topic of vital interest to both the advertiser himself and the reader, whom he desires to impress. The following is the editorial in question:
"The slogan 'Truth in advertising,' seems to have appealed to the imagination of some good folk who have not thought too heavily about the matter before, until it has persuaded them that this is a new thing which it is their grave duty in life to introduce. As it happens, if these well-intentioned folk were as particular about the accuracy of the statements they make as they require that advertisers shall be, they would have a chance to do some worth while work.
"Advertising is a tremendous force in commercial life. It is commanding the best efforts of thousands. Advertising is an art. It has not yet been possible to reduce it to a set of rules. Its styles change greatly. Once it meant no more than a business card in the advertising columns of the newspaper. Later, advertisers felt it necessary to use every adjective in Webster. For a time advertising men believed that the design of the advertisement was everything. Then we had the 'Reason why' style, and so it has gone.
Some principles long ago became clear to the men who advertise, and the publishers who accept advertising. The first of these is that a natural law takes care of the deliberate falsifier. Only the fly-by-night faker or some storekeeper, over-zealous for immediate gain, attempts in these enlightened days to win by dishonesty. When they advertise, these men are all the more quickly eliminated. Frauds who cannot maintain what they have claimed almost immediately collapse.
The real merchant knows that there are basic principles, natural laws, which must be followed if he is to succeed. One of these natural laws is the law of 'honesty' in business. These are his essentials. Many merchants scan their advertising copy far more carefully than they examine merchandise that they buy. They make sure that their representations are truthful. They cannot afford to lie. They might as well try giving short change to their customers as deceiving the readers of their 'store news'.
"For years and years there have been hundreds of merchants who have recognized that honesty and truth should be the foundation of their advertising as well as of their business. And for years these merchants have succeeded. Look over their printed announcements for the last score of years. You do not find them untruthful or misleading.
"Merchants know better than anyone can tell them that the greatest success cannot come from advertising unless they are absolutely truthful, and so today, just as they are seeking the maximum of success in selling, so they are practicing the utmost honesty in advertising."

A TRIFLE HARD.

Editorial comments throughout the United States have been more or less directed at Secretary of State Bryan and his chautauqua lectures, but it is left for the Wall Street Journal to make a final bid for public favor by terming it "refined vaudeville" and commenting upon the situation as follows:
"There was and is, a house of entertainment offering that miscellaneous fare which goes under the generic term of vaudeville, which advertised one of the 'turns' as 'Twenty Minutes of Indescribably Broad Fun.' The secretary of state in Mr. Wilson's cabinet, the next in rank for the presidency after Vice President Marshall, has given a point to that description which is being emphasized, not by what Mr. Bryan calls 'tory newspapers,' but by the circular of the Chautauqua Association, which exhibits him as a drawing attraction, with jugglers, popular singers and the lesser artistic kind, mountebanks and other circus performers.

"There is something potentially Melphistophilic about the policy of President Wilson in placing Mr. Bryan in a position where he could expose the sordid mediocrity of his character. But Mr. Wilson, in playing dexterous politics, has subjected this country to an indignity which has not merely been a cause of contemptuous criticism abroad, but one of deep humiliation for every self-respecting citizen desiring to uphold the real, and not merely factitious, dignity of one of the greatest officers in the vicar's gift of the president. It is true that Mr. Wilson has eliminated his one formidable rival in the democratic leadership by giving Mr. Bryan rope enough to hang himself. But may not the people of the country protest against an end secured at such a price?

"Actuated by some such subtle motive, the New York Times has published, from Sunday to Sunday, the addresses, delivered at a minimum of $250 an address, which call Mr. Bryan away from duties that have taken all the time, energy and even health of the ablest statesmen the country has ever seen. Robbed of their chief attraction—the engaging personality, the oratorical delivery, the trained elocutionary methods—the residuum is one which no statesman of our history would be willing to father. The addresses were full of slenzy platitudes, question begging epithets, slopy reasoning, incomplete syllogisms—everything which might be expected from a speaker who has never been educated to form reasoned convictions.

"This is no attack on Mr. Bryan indeed, it would be good policy to say nothing about it, but for the open scandal of the whole squalid business, because he would immediately quote the name of this paper as an evidence of the malice of Wall street, trusting to the name to carry the unthinking applause of those as ignorant as himself. But the public shame is the greater because Mr. Bryan is seemingly incapable of perceiving that it is a scandal at all. The appeal, then, is to a higher authority. Surely the self exposure of Mr. Bryan has gone far enough?
Readers will remember Buridan's old problem of the donkey, equidistant between two bundles of hay, equally attractive, but for the logical might be expected to starve to death before he decided which he would eat. But the animal, being incapable of reasoning, would turn to either bundle if a fly settled upon the opposite ear—and solve the problem. What ever the practical solution might be, the subject of the problem would still remain an ass."

THE STATE FAIR AGAIN.

Milwaukee newspapers are still busy trying to prove that if it had not been for the citizens of Milwaukee that attended the fair last week it would have been a failure. This only reiterates the truths told the legislature last winter. Milwaukee is too far away from the agricultural centers of the state, too hard to reach by rail, to attract the farmers, and average tax payers who pay the deficits each year of the experiment of holding the state fair in Milwaukee for the benefit of the Milwaukee merchants.

THE UNDERCURRENT.

There seems to be a decided undercurrent in the city of antagonism against the present city administration. Every effort is strained by the element who foster this movement, to discredit the actions of the police and mayor and they are even ready to sacrifice old friends to gain their personal ends. If Janesville is to go ahead as it should, there should be a concerted action to boost the city and not knock it.

WOMEN'S WORK.

The state industrial commission has laid down strict rules relative to hours of work of women in factories throughout the state. It is also intimated that women are not paid sufficiently in some localities, which is a most interesting fact and one which should be investigated thoroughly.

These Mexican circus stunts of shooting up an American town and then escaping across the border line, mark new crises in the affairs of the trouble republic every day or two.

So Thaw is in the custody of the United States government. Too bad they can not deport him as an undesirable alien.

Maybe those cows will jump over the moon when she finds what the summer has done to her food prices.

Janesville is on the map and from every part of the state citizens talk of the city by the Rock.

Congress ought soon to complete its work so as to have earned its regular Christmas holiday.

To play a waiting game Uncle Sam is far better prepared than Huerta.

SPUR-MOMENT

My Old Bill Cat

I've got a cat whose name is Bill. It seems that he just can't stay still; He simply wanders round the house. But he ain't ever caught a mouse. I don't know what he is good for, Except to bark around and purr. For that's the way the critter begs. And run himself between my legs. When he wants something ter to eat—
His appetite cannot be beat. Seems like he's never satisfied; Seems like he's never satisfied; When out he wants to sit inside. And when I let the door foot in He hollers to get out agin'! He's like a lot of folks I know. Who don't know where they want to go—

Not even what they want to do; I've met that kind and so have you. He doesn't seem to show no sense. But sits all night on our back fence And lets out fiendish yells and screams. Just like our college football teams Or like some public speaker about Who don't know what he's talking about. All folks is queer, it seems, and About the way it is with cats. I've often thought with Bill I'd part. But I ain't ever had the heart To chloroform the cuss or tie A stone to him and see him die. For after all is said and done, My Bill cat ain't the only one. Who hasn't found his mission in This world, and it can't be a sin When lots of folks with brains like Are just as bad as him and wuss. He may not be good, but still, Somehow, I like my old cat Bill.

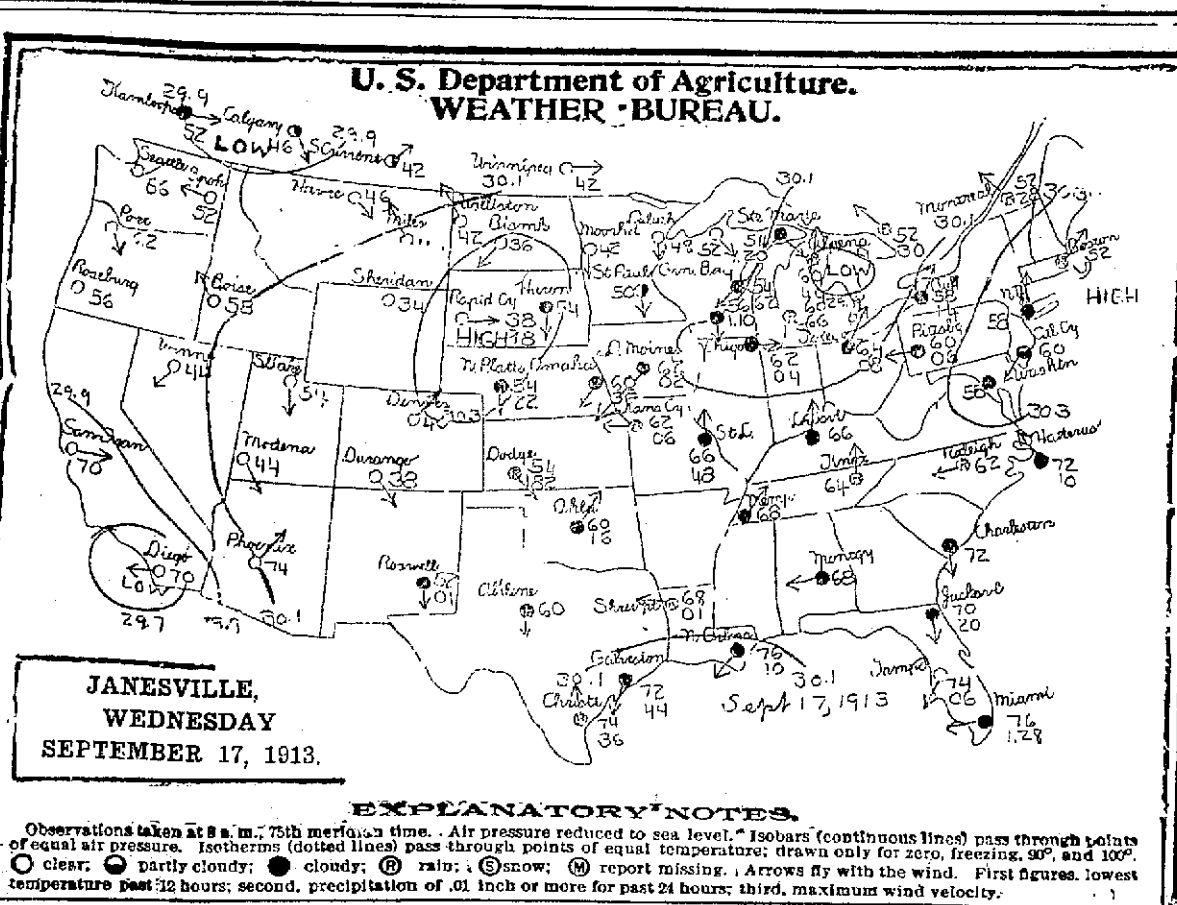

According to Uncle Abner. Miss Euphemie Perkins of our town expects to go on the stage. Dramatic seems to run in her family. Her grandfather used to run a shooting gallery and her uncle used to be a living skeleton in a dime museum.
There ain't much in a name. I know a stationary engineer who has been fired out of nine jobs in three months.
Strange as it may seem, fellers that try to make their fortune by workin' in a blacksmithin' shop don't always forge ahead.
A feller never knows how many good friends he hasn't got until he tries to sell 'em something.
It is a harder job for a feller to get through a camel's eye than it is for a feller with a plug hat and sack suit to get into society.
If Carnegie intended to die poor, he started at it the wrong way. He ought to have been a miser.
Who ever see a married woman that didn't cry every time she went to a wedding and then wish the couple much joy while she was blowin' her nose?
They say it takes two to make a quarrel, but, by gawd, it don't when your wife gets good and mad.
They can talk about the bantamweights, lightweight, welterweights, middleweights, and heavyweight, but none of 'em has ever knocked out old John Barleycorn.
Col. Eli Mudge is the most artificial liar I ever see. Just to keep up his reputation as rip snortin' disour of the truth he swore before the tax assessor that his property was worth four million dollars. That's what you call sacrificin' yourself for your art.

Unreliable History.
The dulcet strains from Nero's violin floated gently down the side of Palatine hill in ancient Rome.
A mental approached in breathless haste, exclaiming, "Your majesty, the city burns!"
"Let her burn," snarled Nero, adding away in right good earnest.
"But your majesty, the empire falls."
"Let her fall," growled the monarch, as he performed an intricate pizzicato upon his priceless Stradivarius. "I can go to America and get $3 a seat for doing this."

Wishing.
"I wish"—
What do you wish?
You wish, of course, for something you do not have. You are dissatisfied with what you have. You go along, living your life, struggling, eager, like the bound on his scent, and then—you stop and wish for something.
What do you wish?
Supposing, as in fairy stories, you could have, say, three wishes, and only three.
Do you remember how the old German couple made the three wishes the fairy granted them?
The husband wished first for a big sausage. Then the wife, angered by the foolish wish of her husband, wished the sausage might be fastened to the end of his nose. It required the third wish to remove the sausage from his nose.
Would you be wiser?
A certain newspaper asked its subscribers to make three wishes. Many things were named, but more than all else the men wished for money, power, position; the women for money, love and beauty.
Now—
Supposing the men got their money, power and position. The money would give them a lot of trouble in keeping it, the proper use of power would vex them tremendously, and the demands of position would soon tire them.
And the women's wishes?
Supposing they got the beauty they crave. The day would surely come, as surely as they are mortals, when that beauty would fade. The money would not buy it back. And love? That was the best wish of them all. But love does not always last. Would it abide?
Ains for the rain wishes!
Yet not vain. They are so human. And also they are expressive of the soul. And they have much to do with the shaping of character.
Because—
It is the law of being that you are fashioned into the likeness of that which you admire and desire, what you wish for.
What you wish for determines to a large extent what you really are.
Therefore—
You may well ask yourself, Do I wish for the things that are the best?

September 17, 1913.—The area of low barometer, and had weather that was in the middle Mississippi valley yesterday, moved across Wisconsin and is now passing over the Lake region. It was attended by rainfall quite generally throughout the region between the Rockies and the Atlantic coast. The heaviest rainfall was at Madison, where 1.21 inches fell during the passage, and generally fair weather prevails west of the Rockies. It is unusually warm on the Pacific coast, a maximum of 102 degrees being recorded at San Francisco yesterday, the highest temperature ever recorded there.

Liked Their Viands Sweet.
Pineapple chunks and roast beef as a dinner dish sounds like a return to the habits of the forefathers, who always wanted something sweet with their meat. Sir Walter Besant tells how in Tudor days most people's teeth were black on account of their diet. Honey was poured lavishly over the beef and sugar employed to give fillip to the poultry, and even the wine had to be much sweetened to please the palate of the medieval gourmet. To this day Englishmen add current jelly to mutton, apple sauce to pork, and in Germany stewed pears form "the usual trimming" of chicken.

Why?
Why is it that whenever one glances into an undertaker's shop one invariably sees some man sitting in front of a closed desk behind the railing with his feet on the level with his head, apparently gazing into space? This seems to be the favorite attitude affected by our undertaking brethren. Will some kind soul "undertake" to throw a little light upon the subject?

ITALIAN THREATENS

OLIVER GRANT WITH A LOADED REVOLVER

Police in Search This Afternoon For Laborer Who Caused Disturbance at Railroad Hotel.

An Italian laborer, who created a disturbance at the bar room of the Railroad hotel, corner of North Academy and Wall streets, this afternoon threatened Oliver Grant, the proprietor with a loaded revolver.

Persons who were in the saloon at the time immediately overpowered the Italian and took his weapon away from him. In the melee the desperado escaped.

The police were at once notified of the affair and a search was immediately instituted. At four o'clock he had not been captured.

WIFE HE ABANDONED CAUSED HIS ARREST

W. T. Harrington, Alias M. T. Holleran of This City, Must Face Charges of Forgery.

His location and identity discovered by his first wife, a Wauegan woman, whom it is alleged he abandoned without a divorce, W. T. Harrington, alias M. T. Holleran of this city, was yesterday placed under arrest and taken to Wauegan, Illinois, to answer charges of forging two checks on farmers, one for $100 and the other for $84, cashed on the first National Bank of Wauegan.

As Harrington has a wife in this city it is probable that a charge of bigamy will also be brought against him. He has been employed at the Dan Leary blacksmith shop for about three years and about a year ago was married to Miss Ida Smith. He was an active church worker and generally well liked. Harrington is said to have been in Wauegan.

On learning that her husband was in Janesville, Mrs. Harrington, or Mrs. Holleran, as she was known in Wauegan, made a trip to this city to determine whether the report was correct, and on her return informed the Wauegan police of her discovery. Officer Hicks was sent for him, and at his request Patrolman Sam Brown placed him under arrest yesterday morning. He was taken to Wauegan on a train, leaving this city at ten o'clock. To one who questioned him concerning the charges against Harrington, Officer Hicks said that the prisoner was merely wanted for failure to pay up his share of a note.

Hill, principal of the local industrial school will return tonight, today being the last day of the conference.

It aroused great interest in her methods and suggestions and was followed by a prolonged discussion. Paul H. Neystrom who last year taught the class in salesmanship, read a paper on "Retailing, Selling and Store Management." The meetings were presided over during the day by L. D. Harvey of the Stout Institute, and by E. H. Hicks, Dean of the University of Wisconsin and Dean L. E. Reber of the Extension Department of the university.

AUTO DRIVERS MUST HEED REGULATIONS

Chief Ransom Calls Special Attention to Regulation of New State Law.

Chief of Police E. H. Ransom has issued orders to the patrolmen that the new state law regulating the running of automobiles shall be strictly enforced and that violators will be subject to arrest. Following reports of numerous violations, special attention is called to that part of section 1634-48 which deals with the driving of motor propelled vehicles past street cars which are loading or receiving passengers. The law is particularly explicit in regard to this and is as follows:

"The operator or driver of any vehicle, when any street car is actually taking on or discharging passengers at the crossings or intersection of any public streets or highways, shall stop such automobile, motor vehicle or other similar motor vehicle, until such passengers have been taken on or discharged from such car."

Owing to frequent congestions at Main and Milwaukee streets when there are persons getting off for the interurban or street cars, special attention of the automobile drivers of the city is called to this provision which is calculated to prevent accidents and protect the traveling public.

POSTOFFICE ORDERS ABOUT STAMP MONEY

Carriers Not Required to Collect Loose Coins From Rural Mail Boxes—Have Cup Near Box.

In the September Official Postal Guide received at the Janesville postoffice, the following instructions are issued: A special notice warning patrons that rural carriers are not required to lift loose coins from rural mail boxes, requesting that publicity be given the notice for the information of rural mail patrons. The notice is as follows:

"The attention of postmasters at rural delivery offices is again directed to the fact that carriers are not required to collect loose coins from rural mail boxes."

"Patrons should inclose coins in an envelope, wrap them securely in paper, or deposit them in a coin-holding receptacle, they can be easily and quickly taken from boxes, and carriers will be required to lift such coins and when accompanied by mail for dispatch, attach the requisite stamps."

"Carriers who lift coins not so inclosed, wrapped or deposited will do so purely as a matter of accommodation and not by any direction or requirement of the department."

Emphasis in this matter of the order regarding collecting loose coins will be hailed with delight by every rural carrier. In cold wintry weather it is almost impossible to pick loose coins from mail boxes and patrons are not to appreciate their free mail service to the extent of complying with the Postoffice Department's wishes as above expressed will find their loose coins left severely alone by carriers and letters mailed.

The easiest way is either wrap your coins or put an old cup in your box and use the cup as a coin receptacle, rural carriers saying it is easy to lift a cup and when they know a patron uses a cup for his coins, they get in the habit of looking into the cup each time they stop at the mail box.

JEFFERSON AVENUE PAVING COMPLETED

Street Between Ruger and Oakland Avenues Has Been Improved at Cost of Nearly $2,000.

Jefferson avenue between Ruger and Oakland avenues has been paved with macadam and gravel paving at a total cost of $1,913.69 of which $1,400 will be raised by special assessment on property along the street. The balance of $513.69 will be paid from the third ward fund.

The work has been completed by Contractor William H. Ryan and has been approved by the board of public works according to their report submitted at the regular meeting of the council yesterday.

The report states that 4,339 square yards of pavement were laid at a total cost of $1,992.21, with the cost of excavation and filling the total outlay incurred in the work by Mr. Ryan was $1,866.94. He purchased from the city 822 cubic yards of crushed stone and used the city roller for 57 hours, so that the amount due him on the work is now $1,214.41.

Other street improvement matters were included in the business before the council. Repairs on the street and gutter on Dodge street near River street were ordered and crosswalks were ordered on Chestnut street at Western avenue, on River street at Galena and on Galena at Academy.

One car of paving bricks was ordered purchased. The report of the city stone crusher plant was received. The appointment of A. C. Thorpe as clerk of the municipal court by Judge H. Maxfield was received and also the report of the court for the month of August.

James Gillispie, janitor at the city hall was allowed a ten day vacation with pay.

Some Criticism.
"I'm glad my children are all boys," said the mother of seven young hopefuls. "Because why?" queried the privileged friend. "Because none of them is doomed to grow up and marry a man like their dad," she answered with a sigh.

CHARGES AGAINST MURPHY WITHDRAWN

Decision is Reached Previous to Meeting of Fire and Police Commission Last Night.

When the special meeting of the fire and police commission was called to order by President George P. Kimball last night at the city hall, there was nothing to come before them for consideration as it was announced that the charges against Cornelius Murphy, assistant chief of the fire department, had been withdrawn by A. G. Metzinger.

At a conference of Attorney T. S. Nolan for Mr. Murphy and Attorney M. O. Mounat for Mr. Metzinger at which Fire Chief Klein, present, a satisfactory agreement was reached and it was decided that the charges would be withdrawn.

Witnesses on both sides, who had been summoned to appear at the meeting which was called especially to hear this case, were then dismissed.

The commission held an informal discussion with Chief of Police Ransom and Fire Chief Klein with reference to matters concerning their respective departments.

Business Slow: Because of the unpleasant weather yesterday, business was slow in coming up in the county court, but by this noon about one half of the twenty-seven cases on the calendar had been disposed of. All business will probably be disposed of by the end of the week.

WILL HOLD SESSION OF COURT SATURDAY

Judge George Grimm to Hear Whatever Cases Are Brought Up—Naturalization Cases Next Week.

Judge George Grimm of the circuit court will be at the court house Saturday afternoon to hear whatever cases are brought before him for his opinion and decision. Next Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted exclusively to the disposition of naturalization cases. A naturalization examination from Chicago will be present. One hundred and eighty-seven applications for second papers have been received. Clerk of the Court Jesse Earle is engaged in making typewritten lists of the candidates for naturalization, arranging them by the communities in which they live. This results in saving a great deal of time and confusion, making it unnecessary for a witness to attend court more than once or for any applicant to spend more than an hour in court.

MAKES NO DEFENSE AND PAYS $25 FINE

Mrs. Exilda Dalton Convicted on Charge of Selling Liquor Without a License.

Mrs. Exilda Dalton, proprietor of the Madison House on West Milwaukee street, was convicted yesterday in circuit court this morning of selling intoxicating liquor without a license in violation of the city ordinances.

Judge Maxfield imposed the minimum fine of $25 and costs. Dalton's attorney, J. J. Cunningham, was in court but offered no defense.

City Attorney W. H. Dougherty was the sole witness on the part of the city. He testified to the fact that Mrs. Dalton had in her possession at the time of the alleged offense a government license for the sale at retail of intoxicating liquors. Mr. Dougherty then called attention of the court to the section in the statute which provides that the possession of a government license is prima facie of the intent to sell liquor. Mr. Dougherty asked the court to exercise leniency in the imposing of the fine as Mrs. Dalton was not inclined to cause the city any trouble or expense in prosecuting the case.

Attorney Cunningham asked the court to take into consideration the fact that Mrs. Dalton has four minor children depending on her support and that she faced a difficult proposition in making a hotel property pay when she withheld a night of operating a bar by the recently adopted liquor zone regulation.

Another quota of drunks was arraigned before Judge Maxfield at nine o'clock this morning. Debony received the most severe sentence amounting to a fine of $25 or a sixty day term in jail; Herman Buege, who pleaded not guilty, was convicted by the court on testimony offered and drew a twenty day term; and Ed Gains and Frank Forbes, strangers, who claimed to have been employed on county road work, were given fifteen and twenty days respectively.

LUNCHEON IN HONOR MISS BELLE SHERER

Mrs. James Zanias Entertains At Elaborate Affair at Parlors of Apollo Theatre.

Mrs. James Zanias entertained at a one o'clock luncheon today at the parlors of Apollo theatre in honor of Miss Clarielle Sherer who will be an October bride. Covers were laid for twelve young ladies, who were members of the Sunny Monday club and an elaborate six course luncheon was served under the direction of Mrs. Louise Bowerman.

The parlor of the theatre was most attractively decorated with large festoons of southern smilax hanging above windows and doorways and from the chandelier. Beautiful ferns and palms were also used with rich effect. A large howdah, which was formed an artistic center-piece for the table and flower favors were placed on the dais in the shape of a large heart. Dainty hand-painted place cards were at each plate. Before Miss Sherer was a group of dolls dressed as a bridal party and each guest was given a small doll in bridal costume.

Following the luncheon the guests were entertained at the matinee at the theatre the balcony being decked with smilax and palms for the occasion. Following the theatre program a delightful musicale was enjoyed in the hall. Miss Lucie Webster, piano soloist and Mr. Edwin Warde, baritone, both of Seattle, Wash., being the artists. The guests were also favored with two duet numbers, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Barcarolle Tales of Hoffman". Mrs. W. T. Sherer, mother of the guest of honor was the accompanist.

ORGANIZES NEW DIVISION OF THE HIBERNIAN ORDER

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHAT IS SUCCESS IN LIFE?

TO HIT a target when you do not know exactly at what you are aiming is next to impossible, isn't it? And yet it is the way most of us live. In a vague way we are all aiming at the shining mark, "success." Every young man or woman thoroughly expects to lead a successful life. No one would thank you if you told him that his life was likely to be a failure. And yet, how many people really have any idea what and where this target at which they are aiming is? How many young people stop to define success before they start to win it?

What is success? Who succeeds in life? Who fails?

Suppose we try to define it. We mean you and I, reader friends. I will give you my own present definition, by the way, it's one of the queer things about this target that as we travel the long road it seems to shift and change like a mountain seen from various points of view: the youth is sure he sees it in one direction; the same youth, grown to middle age sees it in quite another quarter; and the old man sees it still differently, if at all. To return to the main road, I'll give you my present definition and two or three others I have heard or read, and in return you must send me yours and we will have a symposium of them some day soon. It is possible to define a thing very clearly by defining its opposite. Therefore I call this Canon Farrar's definition of success. "There is only one real failure possible, and that is not to be true to the best one knows."

A successful life is that of one who leaves the world a little better than he found it, a friend or mine contributes.

David Graham Phillips, without labelling it as such, has put into the mouth of one of his political characters a very beautiful definition of success. "If a man," said he, "fixes his mind not on making friends or defeating enemies, not on elections or history, but just on avoiding from day to day, from act to act, the condemnation of his own self, that is success. And now my own, perhaps a poor thing, but mine own." Just at present my best definition of a successful life is—to be happy and to make others so. You will surely admit that no one who fulfills these two conditions can be wholly a failure, and no one who fails in them wholly a success.

Please do not fail to send in your definition. Think it over around the dinner table. Formulate it and send it in, and who knows who may be helped by it! Probably not the least of all—yourself.

Incidentally, please be brief. We want to be able to get in a good many points of view on this subject, and if you can pack yours into a hundred words or, better still, into twenty-five or fifty, you will help make that possible.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

Refinement's Final Test Lies in Manners at Table.
There is no place or condition where the individual, young or old, is so unflinchingly judged for his refinement as when dining. This is the final test.
Customs change from year to year and one should not make himself conspicuous by disregarding the changes. There have been many changes in the manner of serving and table etiquette since the time of Nero. At one time it might have been customary to cut with a knife or drink tea or coffee with the spoon in the cup, but now we have other ways of disposing of these articles at certain times. Knives are made for cutting the food and the fork for conveying it to the mouth. A cup is apt to be upset if the spoon is left in it, so after stirring tea or coffee lay the spoon in the saucer when not in use.

There is a right way and a wrong way of holding the knife and fork. Take them firmly in the hand with the handles entirely covered by the hand and not in between the thumb and forefinger, which is frequently seen. This should be taught from childhood and then when grown to manhood or womanhood, one does not have to suffer embarrassment from not being at perfect ease at a table. Sit erect, easily, but not stiffly, at the table, never dipping back nor stretching the legs under the table. There is no necessity for

"Nothing Grows Hair As Beautifully As This"

Secrets of Remarkable Formulas Revealed by Valeska Suratt, the American Dramatic Star, Famous for the Beauty She Quickly Acquired Through Her Own Novel Efforts.

By Miss Valeska Suratt

There is only one thing among the dozens of things I ever tried for the hair that produces results which you can actually see. The claims made for most of the hair tonics sold are very disappointing, as many women realize.
The formula which I finally made up after many tests proved to be a very remarkable one. One of the best features about this formula is that you use one ingredient in concentrated form, and by making up the formula yourself in a few minutes, you have several times the quantity which you would get by buying any of the ordinary already put-up hair tonics—and, besides this economy, you have not a weak hair preparation but a powerful hair restorer. You will soon notice a remarkable difference in growth, thickness and wealth of hair by using this formula every day and often.

Take a half a pint of water and mix it with half a pint of alcohol, for use take a full pint of bottled mayonnaise if you wish and add to it one ounce of ketchup, which you can get at any good drug store for not more than fifty cents.

Produce Faultless Complexion Quickly.
For beautifying the face, arms and hands, here is a formula which is almost magic. It gives the skin a superb pink whiteness, removes all mudiness and spots in a very short time. In a few weeks your complexion will be almost perfect, with a bloom and freshness that is adorable. You must use this liberally every day. Mix two tablespoonfuls of glycerine in half a

Best Way to Remove Pimples.
Pimples and skin eruptions will all disappear if you will for a time take one or two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day of a mixture of twelve ounces of sugar, one ounce of arsenic, and one-half pint of water. Get the arsenic, which is a liquid in the original package by the ounce. This will do what no blood tonic or face cream ever can.

bending nearly to the soup dish when eating soup, neither should elbows be resting on the table while eating. The napkin is laid across the lap and not tucked in at the neck unless for children, and then a bill is better until they can use a napkin properly. After the meal at home each member folds the napkin and puts it in a napkin ring or linen case as desired. At a restaurant or hotel restaurant it is not folded, but laid loosely at the side of the plate.

The silver is not put on the table to be played with nor the napkin rings twisted and rolled. It is a bad example for the children and shows lack of self-control and poise. In passing the plate for a second helping the knife and fork should be placed across the top of the plate and never laid on the cloth after once used. The blade of the knife or tines of the fork should not rest on the edges of the plate, but when not in use laid across on the side of it.

Eating Soup.
When soups are eaten the spoon is filled by dipping toward the farthest edge of the plate. Eat soup quietly. Do not frequently crackle or slurp in the soups, but eat with the spoon. Bread is spread in small pieces as it is eaten and is broken rather than cut. Never urge people to eat. Be hospitable, but do not over do it. I once remember having a guest pass his cup for a half a cup of coffee, he received just that amount. He said: "This is the first time in my life I ever asked for a half a cup of coffee and did not receive it." I was running over. I wanted just that much. That is what I mean by not overdoing hospitality. Give guests and the family just what they desire and no more.

Chew food with the lips closed. Begin teaching this when the children are young, and insist upon it and they will thank you for it when they are older. Do not leave the table frequently. This means anyone. A meal should be restful and not exciting, although there should be plenty of bright interesting conversation at the table. This helps wonderfully in the digestive process.

"Grouch" Spoils Meal.
That is why I said last week "no grouch" at our table because any irritation spoils the appetite not only of one but the entire family. Make the conversation interesting to young and old. So often it is mother sits at the table when the conversation seems to be entirely out of her life. Do not forget her if only to tell an amusing story which she can enjoy. Some one has said: "True politeness is kindness. Many people seem to think the expression 'excuse me' 'forgive me' 'thank you' and 'if you please' out of date, but these expressions make the person so refinedly at ease in the past. Standing until mother and sister are seated at the table when children make it much easier when a man of the world to show easily and naturally necessary courtesies. Politeness is never out of place."

Nature's Warning.
Weariness is not necessarily illness. It is just the cry of the body for rest. You must not work on after reaching a point of fatigue. A few days' rest will set you right then, while if the body is made to toil and the mind to work it may take a much longer time to recover. Heed the signal of alarm. Nature knows.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THE devil is content that we should excel in good works, provided he can make us proud of them.—Law.

"Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

HELPFUL HINTS.

One may boil a pudding in a double boiler instead of the old-time pudding bag. Line the upper part of the boiler with oiled paper, turn in the pudding and it will come out in good shape.

A good habit to follow is folding the string which came round the parcel in the wrapping paper, then when a paper and string is needed the string will fit the paper.

Wedding plates used for engraving, cards of invitation or announcement may be made into useful articles. Some have them made into trays, others into small stands for teapot or vase by having small balls soldered to each corner.

Make a list of medicines, antidotes for poisons and keep it fastened inside the medicine closet, where it can be quickly glanced at. Such a precaution may save a life.

Have your kitchen table made to fit you, high enough to work at it without stooping.

When it is necessary to beat upholstered furniture and it cannot be taken out doors, a good way is to cover it with a damp cloth and beat; the dust clings to the cloth.

When a finger is cut while working, wrap a thin piece of cloth over the end and slip on a thimble until there is time to attend to it properly.

When using a dish pan, turn the handles so that the wishes will not be nicked by striking against the handles.

Coarse sand paper kept near at hand will save much scraping of dishes which are scorched.

When hemming children's dresses on the machine, use very fine thread, then when the times come for lengthening, a pull will break the threads.

Under skirts made of the same kind of goods as the work dress are neat, and always look better than a petticoat of another color.

When gold fish are sluggish, a salt bath does them good. Let them lie in the water not longer than five minutes, and they will be as lively as ever.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Everyday talks Are your circumstances such that you cannot afford to keep a maid, from necessity are you forced to do all your own work?

If so, take a wee bit of philosophical comfort in the knowledge that statistics claim that the women doing her own work reduces her expenses by one-half.

Cheer news that! Statistics also prove, for claim to prove) that doing your own work tends to improve our disposition, also our health. Now to even try to oppose what "statistics" prove is folly of the roughest sort. We all agree to that, so far, so good.

To do all the work for a family of growing children, to keep the house in order, to be a cheerful companionable wife and to go out occasionally as one is supposed to do is about enough work to keep the average woman from feeling guilty when she reads a piece with glaring headlines condemning the great unrest that is said to be prevalent among our American women.

Talmadge said that the man who worked had no time for sin. The same may be applied to us women.

The woman who does her own work can claim to more than one profession.

She is cook, chambermaid, waitress, wife and mother. Then in her spare time she can sew, darn, bathe the baby, take the children to school, and she should devote some time daily to their moral training. This last is as essential a part of the daily work as the preparing of the meals, for we none of us live by bread alone.

Today the average woman must find time (somehow) for reading, writing letters, probably a little club or lodge work and many other time-taking, often nerve-racking affairs.

Is it any wonder that after the supper dishes are finished she is in no mood to converse with "friend John," who, if he is wise, usually settles down to see how his personal friend "Ty Cobb" is progressing.

As one circles a pole they are apt to view a different scene from every side. To stop and enumerate the multitudinous duties connected with the successful running of a home is to decide that no one woman can ever perform them all. Still daily the women in our homes do each day's work and really look and act as if they enjoyed it.

System is one solution of this problem. There may be and are many more. Frankly speaking it is no sin, more. The average woman of today has in her home all the little refinements she can afford, because even though they mean work she loves them. What woman will deny the in-born desire that lurks in her heart for the many faintly accessories that add to make attractive her own home?

All these mean extra work. This is no plea to abolish all the little things that the heart of women craves. No! Merely a suggestion that in all things pertaining to our homes we try to strike the happy medium.

If every woman did only what she could and her neighbors did the same it would simplify the home work in a way that would be really beneficial. What if you would put this idea into practice?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. LUCAS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Will you tell me how to clean a white rubber hat?

(2)—Is it proper for a fellow to give a girl a French kiss?

(3)—Should a boy hold a girl's hand while at a theatre?

(4)—Is there any harm in talking a fellow into going out after returning from a buggy ride?

(5)—I am fifteen years old. Should I run after the boys and coax them to go with me? Will they like me better if I do?

(6)—Is it proper for a gentleman to hold a lady's hat in a theatre?

(7)—You can clean with dampened cornmeal, with gasoline or with half a lemon diluted in sulphur and rubbed on the hair. Sulphur and cornmeal must be well brushed out after hat is dry.

(8)—I do not think so.

(9)—Not very much, but when a young man takes her home, out of courtesy of him, she should not delay him. He may be anxious to get home himself.

(10)—I am surprised that you ask me such a question. Everybody knows that a girl cheapens herself by running after the boys and that the boys make fun of her when they get together. Boys always know quite well when a girl is running after them. She may think she is popular—but she ought to know what the boys think! A girl can be nice to boys without running after them and coaxing them to go with her.

(11)—She should hold her own hat.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Is it injurious to the face to use powder if you first put cold cream on?

(2)—Is it good for the complexion if you perspire?

(3)—Is it disrespectful for girls of sixteen and eighteen to go to ball games if their brothers go and play in the country? "PIE FACE."

(4)—A young girl should never use powder. Nothing is so pretty as her own skin. Older women would not think of using powder if they could have a young girl's fresh skin. A good quality of powder, used with a little good cold cream, will not harm the skin.

(5)—Perspiration is good for the complexion.

(6)—I don't think so, my dear. A ball game is as good for a girl to see as for a boy to play in.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What will take a polish for woodwork stain out of white nubuck shoes?

(2)—We are two girls of sixteen and want to know if we are too young to go with young gentlemen?

(3)—First use turpentine, then sponge with chloroform or alcohol, always rubbing in toward the center so no dark ring will be left around the outer edge of stain.

(4)—I think you are too young to have steady beaux, my dears. It is desirable to have boy friends, if you

Thursday, September 18th, will doubtless be regarded as a red letter day by the women readers of The Gazette, for it is on that auspicious date that the grand distribution of the Pattern Outfit begins.

When it is considered that you will get one hundred and sixty of the latest patterns for embroidery, each of which can be transferred from three to five times, an all metal hoop with new patent, self-adjusting springs, and a leather of instructions in which all known stitches are so simply and clearly illustrated that any school girl can readily become an expert, all for 68 cents, or 7 cents extra if to be mailed, and sixty cents shipping from the Gazette, the marvel to everyone will be how it is possible to supply an outfit of more value than $20.00 for such a nominal sum as 68 cents.

The Gazette will begin the distribution on Thursday, September 18th, 1913, of pattern outfits that will leave nothing to be desired concerning art, neatness and style. As will be stated, which will bring the proposition within the reach of everyone.

For a Sweet Kitchen

CRISCO

For Frying - For Shortening
For Cake Making

When you fry with Crisco you have a kitchen free of smoke. And there is no odor from the fat.

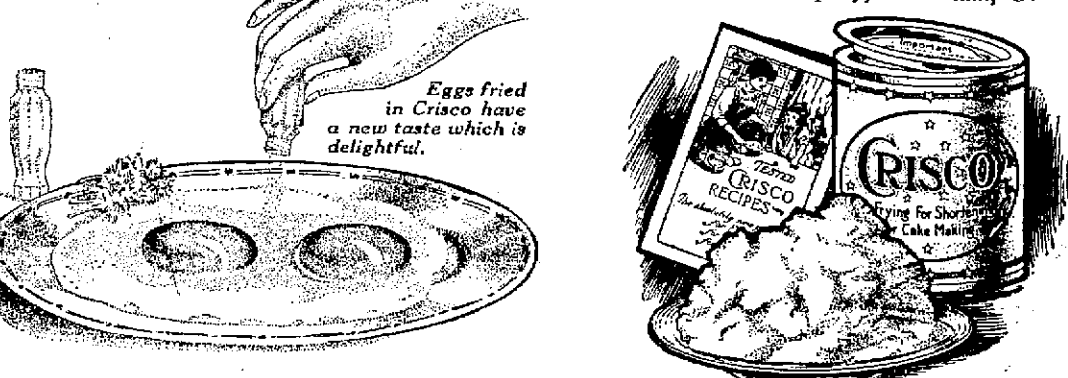

Crisco does not smoke at frying temperature; you need not wait until it becomes "smoking hot." In deep frying, test for proper temperature with bread crumb or bit of dough before placing the food into the hot Crisco.

There will be no more burned specks in the food. Foods fried in Crisco are more wholesome; the crust forms immediately and then the inside bakes instead of soaks.

Crisco is all vegetable. It is a rich fat that readily digests. It is used not only for frying and shortening in place of lard, but for rich cakes in place of butter. Less is used in each recipe, because Crisco is so much richer. It stays fresh and pure in ordinary room temperature.

MUTUAL RELATIONS AND INTERESTS OF THE BELL SYSTEM AND THE PUBLIC

The suit brought by the United States questioning the purchase of certain telephone properties in the northwest, as well as the pending Interstate Commerce Commission investigation, have caused many inquiries. Without taking up anything going to the merits of these proceedings, it has seemed to us proper to state generally what has been our policy and purpose in the conduct of our business.

We have found, or thought that we had, that our interests were best served when the public interests were best served; and we believe that such success as we have had has been because our business has been conducted on these lines.

We believe that our company has an interest as vital as that of the public in the proper administration of the problems of electrical inter-communication. The success and prosperity of our company depend upon a solution of these problems which shall be sound from both the standpoint of the company and the public which it serves.

Following our own best judgment, supplemented by the best obtainable advice, we have endeavored to do what would best serve the public interest wherever possible our plans have been disclosed to the public in advance, and what has been done in carrying them out has been along ordinary business lines, with the implied and generally with the expressed approval, authorization or consent of the municipal and state authorities directly interested. Our effort has been not only to obey the law, but to avoid everything which might even have the appearance of an attempt at evasion.

Our business methods and policy, and practically all of the details as to the transaction of our business, are matters of common knowledge and are, and for many years have been, well known to the government. We will willingly furnish the government any additional information which is in our possession or under our control, and will cordially cooperate with it in obtaining such further information as it may require. Every possible assistance will be given by us to the courts in their effort to determine whether our policy is or has been inimical to the public interest. We desire that anything wrong be corrected; we will voluntarily rectify any wrong that may be pointed out to us. Whether our policy may be determined that our policy or any act under it is against the public interest we will promptly conform to such determination.

We believe that each of our exchanges were made an independent unit and if each connecting line were put under a separate control, the effect upon the telephone service of the country would be a condition so intolerable that the public would not submit to it and would immediately require such physical connection and common control of these various units as would amalgamate them into a single system. Physical connection does not mean transfer of messages from one line to the other. It means such a connection as will permit one party to have the actual possession of the particular line of communication from one end of it to the other and this can only be given efficiently by exchange systems and connecting lines under common control; and that is what the Bell System is. In this connection, and for general information, we will restate the policy which controlled the building up of the Bell System, and our belief as to what a telephone system should be, and what are its relations to the public.

We believe in and were the first to advocate state or government control and regulation of public utilities; that this control or regulation should be by permanent quasi-judicial bodies, acting after thorough investigation and governed by the equities of each case, and that this control or regulation, beyond requiring the greatest efficiency and economy, should not interfere with management or operation. We believe that these bodies, if they are to be permanent, effective and of public benefit, should be thoroughly representative; they should be of such character and should so conduct their investigations and deliberations as to command such respect from both the public and the corporations that both will without question accept their conclusions.

We believe that the public would in this way get all of the advantages and avoid all of the disadvantages of public ownership. We believe that centers of business and population exist for the convenience of the public as a whole, and that no such center can prosper without sufficient and efficient means of intercourse with other centers and tributary territories; that such means can only be afforded by prosperous utility and service companies and that fair rates are essential to prosperous companies. We do not believe that any public either desires or can obtain nor can any service or utility furnish, permanent and efficient service at less than cost, including capital charges. We believe that ultimately the public either directly or indirectly pays the losses involved in the efforts to furnish such service at less than its cost, either through the loss of the capital involved, the losses incident to poor service or the necessary increase in charges levied to pay for duplication of capital.

We believe that the highest commercial value of the telephone service depends on its completeness—on the extent and comprehensiveness of the facilities for intercommunication, not only between individuals but between centers of population; that no isolated section can be considered independent of any other section or of the whole; that any attempt to obtain the maximum development by making it possible for every one to be connected with the rest of the country, thus giving the greatest independence of the telephone service and the value of complete and universal intercommunication justify and require some services partly at the expense of the whole for the benefit of the whole.

We believe that this highest commercial value can only be attained by one system under one common control and that it cannot be given by independent systems unless they are operated under agreements which result in one common control and one common interest, in effect making them a single system.

We believe that rates should be so adjusted as to afford the company sufficient revenue to pay such wages and compensation as will secure the most efficient service; to maintain the very highest and most advanced standards of plant and apparatus, to carry on such scientific and experimental research and inventions as to apparatus and methods as to insure the highest standards and to carry to reserve and depreciation such amounts as will enable the company at any time to replace old plant and old methods with new plant and new methods as fast as they may be developed and found to be to the advantage of the service. We believe that in addition, such fair charges should be paid upon the investment in plant as will enable the company at any time to obtain money necessary to provide the plant required to meet the continuing demands of the public; and in order that waste and duplication of effort may be avoided and uniformity of purpose and common control be enforced, that there should be a centralized general administration in close communication with and having general authority over all matters of general policy.

We believe that any surplus beyond that necessary to equalize dividends on a fair basis should be used by the company for the benefit of the public and should be inalienable for any other purpose, and should be either invested in revenue-earning plant until necessary to substitute plant which may become inadequate or obsolete, or should be used to make the service cheaper or better.

We believe that under proper governmental control and regulation the profits from promotion or operation allowed to be distributed should not be so large as to warrant or tempt complete duplication of plant and organization, with its duplication of its capital charges and its organization, operating, maintenance and depreciation expenses, and we do not believe that utilities giving at fair rates an efficient and sufficiently comprehensive universal service should be subject to limited competition not giving such service. Competition which ignores the obligation to furnish a complete and comprehensive service is not competition, is not for the benefit of the public in that it does not reach the whole public interested. It therefore, complete duplication, with its dual exchange connection and dual bills for service, is a prerequisite to complete competition, government control and regulation can go hand in hand with competition.

We believe that the record of the Bell System will be accepted by the public as fully in accord with these principles. Consistent adherence to this policy has given the public of the United States the best, most comprehensive and cheapest telephone service in the world and made the Bell standards the standards of all nations.

To remove any possible excuse for misapprehension on account of the many misleading statements which have been circulated as to the situation and excessive charges of the Bell System, the following statistics are given. Except where stated, the figures are for the Bell System; that is, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its Associated Companies.

The entire Bell System on January 1, 1913, had outstanding in the hands of the public obligations (i. e., notes, open accounts, bonds and shares) to the par value of $75,000,000.

The book value of the tangible assets, which is considerably less than their replacement value, amounted to $353,000,000. Many appraisals of property included in these assets have been made, and most of them under the direction of public authorities. In no case has the value as it stands on the books failed to be sustained, and in many cases it has been very largely exceeded.

The total dividends and interest paid during the year 1912 amounted to only 6.1% on the average of its outstanding obligations, and to less than 5% on the average value of its assets.

The actual cash which has been paid into the treasury of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to account of the capital obligations now outstanding amounts to $22,000,000 more than the par of such outstanding obligations.

The Associated Companies collected from the public and paid back in taxes over $10,000,000 during the year 1912.

The steadily increasing necessities of the public not only for additional but new telephone service can only be met by new construction, involving capital outlay. To meet these demands during the six and one-half years from 1907 to June, 1913, inclusive, the increase in telephone plant was as follows: Line wire increased from 1,460,000 miles to 2,243,000 miles; exchange wire increased from 6,000,000 miles to 13,000,000 miles; the number of exchange stations increased from 2,774,000 to 5,200,000; the number of stations of independent companies connected with the Bell System increased from 343,000 to 2,620,000. The number of independent companies connected with the Bell System is about 25,000. The number of employees in the Bell System, not including the employees of connected companies, on December 31, 1912, was 141,000.

During this same period the number of shareholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, not including either the associated or connected companies, increased from 17,000 to about 41,000. About 47,000 shareholders hold less than 100 shares each; 6,500 shareholders hold from 100 to 1,000 shares each; 247 shareholders hold from 1,000 to 5,000 shares each, while there are only 16 shareholders of 5,000 shares or over in their own right. A majority of the shareholders are women.
